
Music is for Everyone.

A significant/severe disabilities Orchestra at Annandale High School began as a chance to make music with others and spun into a bigger conversation of what true inclusion actually looks like, and how the lessons taught by the students can be applied to a general education Orchestra class. This session not only outlines why true inclusion in music education is important, but also gives the attendees the tools to start a successful program and a chance to brainstorm creative solutions.

Let's connect!

Annie Ray
amray@fcps.edu

*Scan me!
Access to notes, additional resources, slide decks,
and more!*

